

Time Centered Books (Ages 12-18)

Stuck in the 70s

By D.L. Garfinkle

Shay accidentally gets transported back to Tyler's 1978 bathtub. They strike a deal – she'll help him with his popularity problems if he finds a way to get her back home.

Devil's Arithmetic

By Jane Yolen

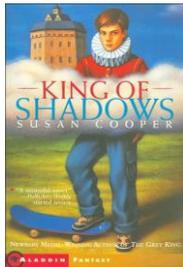

Hannah is transported from her family's Seder to Poland in 1941. But only Hannah knows what horrors await her new Jewish friends at the concentration camps.

Both Sides of Time

By Caroline Cooney

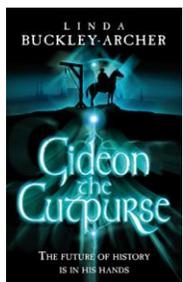

Annie falls back 100 years in time and tries to save a wrongfully accused maid while falling head over heels for the engaged Hiram.

King of Shadows

By Susan Cooper

Orphaned Nat goes to bed with a fever and wakes up in Shakespeare's London where he becomes a protégé of William Shakespeare himself.

Gideon the Cutpurse

By Linda Buckley-Archer

When Kate and Peter are whisked back in time by an antigravity machine, the cutpurse Gideon becomes their only hope of returning to the future.

The Secret Hour

By Scott Westerfeld

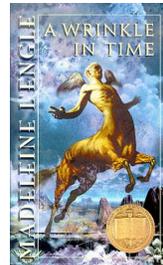

Jessica moves to Bixby, Oklahoma and discovers that there is a secret extra hour every night which only she and a few other gifted teens can enter.

Running Out of Time

By Margaret Peterson Haddix

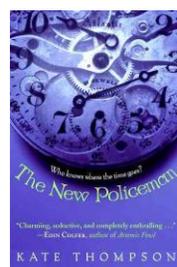

Jessie believes she lives in the 1840s, but it's actually 1996. Sent from her village to get medicine, she must avoid those who don't want her to know the truth.

A Wrinkle in Time

By Madeleine L'Engle

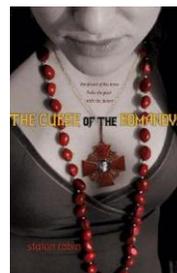

Meg Wallace, her special younger brother Charles, and their new friend Calvin set off on an adventure through time and space to find the siblings' father.

The New Policeman

By Kate Thompson

When his mother wishes for more time as a birthday gift, J.J. sets out to find out where time has gone and winds up in the land of eternal youth.

The Curse of the Romanovs

By Stapon Rabin

Alexei, the last heir to the throne of Russia, tries to escape the evil Rasputin and takes a trip to New York, 2010 where he is rescued by a future relative.