

Geeks and Nerds (Ages 12-18)

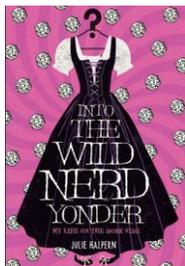

Evil Genius

By Catherine Jinks
Cadel Piggott, with a genius IQ, is studying at Dr. Darkkon's institute for his World Domination degree when he meets Kay-Lee and begins to question the moral consequences of his actions.

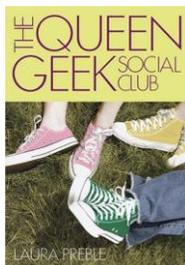

An Abundance of Katherines

By John Green
Colin, a washed-up child prodigy with a thing for Katherines, sets out on a road trip to prove his Theorem of Underlying Katherine Predictability.

Into the Wild Nerd Yonder

By Julie Halpern
Mathlete Jessie journeys through high-school cliquedom in an attempt to find a new group of friends.

The Queen Geek Social Club

By Laura Preble
Shelby, a pretty and witty geek army of one decides to form a Queen Geek Social club along with her new friend Becca.

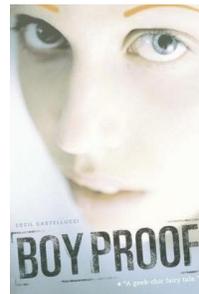

Ghostgirl

By Tonya Hurley
Charlotte has always felt invisible at school, but now she really is: she's dead. But being dead doesn't stop her from wanting to be popular... it just makes her more creative.

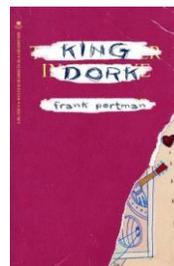

Geek Charming

By Robin Palmer
Perfectly popular Dylan's life changes when she reluctantly allows a film geek to film her for a documentary on popularity, and then gets dumped by her perfect boyfriend.

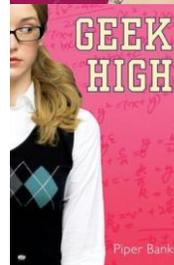

Boy Proof

By Cecil Castellucci
Sci-fi obsessed Egg thinks she doesn't need anyone until she becomes friends with a new guy at school who starts to pull her out of her shell.

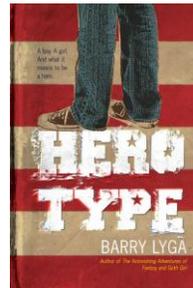

King Dork

By Frank Portman
After King Dork Tom Henderson discovers his father's old copy of The Catcher in the Rye, his life is changed forever.

Geek High

By Piper Banks
Math genius Miranda (known as "the human calculator") doesn't even fit in with the other high-IQ students at her school, probably because they all have actually useful talents.

Hero Type

By Barry Lyga
First revered as a hero, then deemed unpatriotic by his town, Kevin decides to become political, questioning what exactly it is to support the troops.